Expanding on last year's theme of "Sharing the Land," presentations will focus on how we relate to the land in a changing world. By the age of seven each one of us has been immersed in a cultural milieu we inherit from previous generations. As we grow, our cultural perspective & worldview are adapted to meet changing needs and circumstances. Through interactive exercises, conversation and performance we will explore different cultural perspectives and contemporary values related to our understanding of place, our relationship with the land and how we care for the land that sustains us all. Creating a shared future depends on it.

Sessions include:

- Conversation with Trevor Herriot, Saskatchewan based writer - naturalist - activist
- Discussion on Faith Perspectives on the Land
- Discussion on Values, Policy and the Land
- Performance by "Songwriting for Nature" artists
